Getting to Glenfield Hospital Library

Glenfield Hospital is situated on the north-west side of Leicester on the corner of the Outer Ring Road (A563) and the A50.

By car or bicycle or motorcycle

The hospital postcode for use with SatNav or online mapping services is LE3 9QP. There are entrances to the hospital site from both the A563 and the A50 although if approaching on the A50 from the city centre, you will need to go to the roundabout near County Hall to turn around and find the entrance. Parking is very limited on site and car parks for visitors are clearly marked. Parking enforcement is in operation within the hospital grounds. Disabled parking is provided close to entrances. Cycling and motorcycling parking facilities are available.

By rail

Leicester train station is situated on London Road (A6) on the south side of the city centre. Several buses run between the station and Glenfield Hospital including the UHL Hospital Hopper which is a special service that runs between all 3 hospital sites and the train station. It is free for UHL Trust staff with ID badges but charges apply for some. More information on the Hospital Hopper is available:
